

REPRESENTATIVES' FAMILIES DOLEFUL WITH VACATION PLANS KNOCKED AWRY

Trips Far From Heated Washington Called Off in Many Cases Because Congress Recess Is Abandoned—Women Turn to Real Politics, as Suffrage Battle Is Won

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. WITH the recess of the House of Representatives called off many members who had mournfully decided that they couldn't get away for any length of time are having the laugh on the others now. Some, like Fred Britten—who are off for six months in Europe, probably arguing that if the country got along without the President for so long, Congress can get along without Fred—went before the President pulled the string. He waited until less than twenty-four hours before the time set for recessing.

Others are fortunate enough to be on Congressional junkets, members of committees whose investigations lead them rather far afield, like, for instance, that investigation of the disciplinary prisons of the A. E. F. That committee—all but Representative Flood of Virginia, head for the last half dozen years of the Foreign Relations Committee of the House—called Thursday on the George Washington—the President's transport. Representative Flood, who is taking Mrs. Flood along will follow on the Levathan, which will sail next Wednesday.

And there was a party headed for Alaska—to find out why the salmon is losing color or why the present generation of seals is justified in the price asked for its coat—or something like that. It was a party of ten or a dozen Congressmen with their wives. Among them were Representatives Edward S. Brooke, (Conn.) Albert Johnson, (Wash.) G. M. Young, (N. D.), J. M. Evans, (Mont.), J. E. Baker, (Cal.), H. L. Gandy, (S. D.), W. C. Lankford, (Ga.), Scott Ferris, (Okla.), M. H. Weising, (Col.), W. S. Goodwin, (Ark.), E. C. Hutchinson, (N. J.) and C. D. Timberlake, (Col.) Unless Uncle Sam is sending them and paying the freight they'll have to swelter in Washington at a time when Alaska looks particularly alluring.

Congress Members Angry.

No wonder they were mad! Speaker Gillett's curt response to the President didn't hurt the feelings of the rest of them. The Gilletts themselves had had tentative plans which they felt pretty sure of being able to carry out. Mrs. Gillett had been in town right after Congress was convened. Her daughters, the Hoar girls, went two months ago for a round of visits in New England, and Miss Frances Hoar is still up there. But Miss Louisa came home several weeks ago and has been in town with her mother and the Speaker ever since.

They had finally decided to put in much of the recess motoring in New England. But the Speaker is not like the Vice-President. He has no understudy. He simply has to be on his job every day when the House is in session, though he may of course call any one he chooses to the chair if he wishes to leave the chamber for as much of the day as he likes. So Mr. Gillett had to stay.

Miss Frances Hoar seems to be having a lovely time. She was one of a lovely party that spent the last week end with Mrs. Marshall Field at Beverly. Mrs. Field has the Beverly place there this season, and after her usual hospitable fashion is having a succession of house parties and a series of "informal" dinners.

Mrs. Field is given to what she calls "informal" dinners, where covers are laid for thirty to forty guests, and nearly always at Mrs. Field's parties there is choice music.

Representative and Mrs. Ira Copley had planned a trip—also a house party—up into Canada, but they had packed their luggage, and returning to Washington recently by way of New York left it there to be called for. As they had to give up their trip some one had to go to New York for that luggage.

Representative and Mrs. Warren Gard of Ohio had a similar case. Mrs. Gard's mother, Mrs. John H. Woods, and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Nelson, had motored to Washington from their home in Hamilton, Ohio, and after a few days rest they were to start a family party in two motors to make a leisurely trip up into New England, stopping whenever Mrs. Woods, who is not very strong, began to feel tired. But, of course, that is all off now.

On the other hand, the Longworths—Representative and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati—were going to Newport for a few days when Congress adjourned, and they carried out their intention. They had a special engagement up there as house guests of Gov. and Mrs. E. Livingston Blackman at the same time that Col. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Mrs. Longworth's brother, and his wife were there. The Blackmans had planned a brilliant dinner in young Col. Roosevelt's honor. The dinner took place Tuesday night, and Theodore Roosevelt found himself surrounded by men of his own class and caste, who, like his father, had come in for public careers.

On the previous night Mrs. Blackman and Miss Maude Wetmore had had parties at the dinner of the Young Men's Republican Club at Newport, which Representative and Mrs. Longworth also attended.

Miss Wetmore With Anti.

Miss Wetmore has been regarded as rather inclining to the anti-suffrage organization, but she is a member of Mrs. Medill McCormick's National Republican Woman's Executive Committee, representing Rhode Island and Massachusetts, and to a degree the anti. Mrs. Longworth, while she has never been active in the suffrage fight, has been for years a "believer" and ready to help Mrs. Medill McCormick, who is about her most intimate friend in Washington. Probably the fact that Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Sr., was an officer of the national organization of anti has kept Mrs. Longworth from

LAKE SUNAPEE, N. H.

LAKE SUNAPEE, N. H., Aug. 9.—With midseason here, the lake at the Gateway to the White Mountains is enjoying the greatest prosperity since the war. Even the cottages belonging to the Grand Hotel are filled with visitors. While the other hotels report a similar state of affairs, including the Soo-Nip-Park Hotel, Ben Mere, Elm Lodge, Pleasant Home, Burkhaven and Lakeland. Many of the summer homes about the lake which had been vacant for several years have been opened.

Those in automobile parties arriving here from New York and Brooklyn in the last few days included the Rev. F. B. Kinsella, Mrs. H. J. Hush and two children, Mrs. George W. K. Taylor and Mrs. Anna C. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hughes, John J. McFarland, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Runion, Miss Helen Losh, Leroy Chadbourne, Richard Croft, Albert Spaulding, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Anglin, Mrs. P. O. Ayres, Mrs. D. W. Griffith, Miss Florence Whitlock, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wheeler, Mrs. William S. Pyle, Mrs. Joseph H. Guerney, Mrs. Philip S. Clark, son, J. R. Wendell, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Colles, Miss Charlotte B. Colles, T. B. Holland, John G. Stanton, John G. Stanton, Jr., Miss Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Dommerick, Miss Dommerick, Master Louis Dommerick, Mrs. M. A. Day, Dr. S. P. Goodhart, Edward Goodhart, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Searcy and Mrs. L. J. Henry.

Among the guests entertained at the Grand Hotel were the former Secretary of War, Lindley M. Garrison, and Mrs. Garrison of New York, who were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Parker, also of the metropolis. They were on tour through the White Mountains.

Mrs. D. W. Griffith, wife of the playwright, accompanied by Miss Florence Whitlock of New York, enjoyed a few days vacation at the Grand Hotel.

Fishing the last week in Lake Sunapee has brought forth some record catches.

make them did not materialize. It is believed now that he will have it to do in September.

The Secretary of Labor's family is established on the home farm at Bloomsburg, with one or another of the family staying there to keep Secretary Wilson company.
